Napoleon Talks Plain to Maximilian

The New York Tribune of June 26th, publishes some dispatches addressed by the French Minister of Foreign Affairs to the Minister of France in Mexico, which are as strong as anything we have seen in many a day. He says:

"The situation in which we are placed in our relations with Mexico cannot be prolonged. We are compelled by circumstances to take a final resolution, and of which the Emperor has directed me to acquaint you. At the beginning, our expedition had no other object than the recovery of our debt, and to obtain such reparation as was due to our fellow citizens. If, however, we have deemed it desirable to grant our assistance to a nation which was seeking a regular government, order and welfare; if, taking thought for our legitimate interests, we have countenanced a Prince who devoted himself to this generous task, our efforts had to be confined within the precise limits which the Convention of Miramon attempted to determine. Reciprocal arrangements laid down in this act fixed the terms on which we were allowed to use the forces of France in consolidating a friendly government. It would be superfluous to insist upon the causes which make it impossible for the Court at Mexico, notwithstanding its intended uprightness, to fulfill those conditions in the future. On the one hand, our demand for more credit proved fruitless; on the other, we cannot go outside of stipulations and take exclusive charge of the Mexican Government provide with our army for its defense, and with our finances for its administrative service. The advances we have more than once made cannot be renewed, and the Emperor will ask no new sacrifices from France.

Our occupation, therefore, must be brought to an end, and we must prepare ourselves for that result without delay. The Emperor, sir, commissions you to agree upon it with his august ally as soon as a discussion, in which Marshal Bazaine will naturally be called to participate, shall have determined how to secure, as much as possible, the interests of the Mexican Government, the safety of our debt, and the claims of our fellow citizens. The desire of His Majesty is that the evacuation should begin during the coming fall.

The next day he follows it up by a more elaborate note, wherein he indulges in this refreshing bit of plain talk:

It would be uninteresting to revert to the circumstances which prevented the Mexican Government from fulfilling the obligations it had assumed by this act, and which threaten to lay upon our shoulders, without any of the promised compensations, the charge of the new Empire. I need not refer to the copious observations to be found on this subject in my correspondence with the Legation of the Emperor, nor seek for the causes of a situation which I feel called upon to explain. The contract by which we are bound to the Mexican Government having been broken, we are released from the obligations we had assumed.

Nevertheless, sir, we might not have taken advantage of the failure of the Mexican Government in fulfilling the conditions of the treaty of Miramon to declare ourselves discharged from our obligations, if we had not been driven to it. The Mexican Government is unable to furnish the financial resources indispensable to the keeping up our military establishment, and we have even been asked to take charge of most of the expenses of its home administration. These difficulties are not new, and we have repeatedly attempted to provide for them by facilitating loans which have put at the disposal of Mexico considerable amounts of money. But now every attempt to borrow money has been found fruitless. What, then, have we to do in presence of the ascertained deficiency of the Mexican exchequer, and of the charges its pecuniary circumstances have laid upon us? Our budget does not give us the means of supplying the deficit. Mexico being unable to pay for the troops we are keeping in its territory, it would be impossible for us to maintain them there. As to asking from our country new supplies to this end, I have already explained to you our views on that subject. As I told you, public opinion has pronounced with an authority from which there is no appeal, that the limit of the sacrifices had been reached.

A month later he addressed a damning note to the unhappy Max, and as the latter is hopelessly impecunious, modestly suggests that the principal custom-houses of the new "Empire" be handed over to France. This is the cool way he puts it:

The Government of the Emperor thinks that the simplest and least onerous arrangement for the Mexican Government would be to place in our hands the custom-houses of Vera Cruz and Tampico, or any others which may be deemed more convenient. Half the receipts would be assigned to us and applied, a portion to the payment of the 3 per cent. interest of our debt, estimated at $230,000,000, the other as a partial guarantee of the interest due to the holders of the loan of 1864 and 1865. It is to be hoped that, under our administrative care, these custom houses will still furnish, in addition to the deduction agreed to, an important revenue. You will have to make the necessary arrangements with the Mexican Cabinet to be put in possession of the receipts of these custom houses.

These points once settled and the French interests secured, the Government of the Emperor will nevertheless continue to testify all those sympathies with which the Sovereign of Mexico and the generous task to which he has devoted himself, inspires his Majesty.

AMERICAN FENIANS IN IRISH PRISONS.—President Johnson, June 25th, sent to the House of Representatives a message in answer to a resolution calling for information in regard to the arrest and imprisonment in Ireland of American citizens, inclosing a report from the Secretary of State on the subject. The latter says:

He has the honor to subjoin a list of the names of all such citizens of the United States, who, according to the information in the Department, have been arrested since the recent suspension of the habeas corpus act in that country. Pursuant to the instructions of the Department, the United States Minister at London, and Consuls of the United States in Ireland, have made such representation to the British authorities in regard to the cases of persons, that they have been released, except two, who were held for trial upon grounds supposed to be sufficient by the judicial authorities. It is believed, however, that in consequence of the aforesaid representations, even the two persons referred to, one of whom, Col. Burke, have been set at liberty before the present time. The following are the names of those held in arrest in Dublin: Morris McGrath, Lieut. Colonel, John V. Byron, late Major Eighth New York Volunteers; George Archdeacon, Michael O'Bierlo, late Captain Sixty-ninth New York Volunteers; Timothy D. McInid, John Fearring, Burke Kirnon McDonald, James Bible, late Captain United States Army; John H. Gleason, Joseph Gleason, Bernard McDermott, Michael O'Brien, Michael Duffy, Daniel J. Makins, James Smith, of Ohio, John A. Comerford, of Massachusetts, Frank Leslie, William Mackers, native of Pennsylvania; Cornelius Healy, Thomas Hynes. Held in arrest at Belfast, Captain O'Byrne, John Dunn. Held at Cork, James McCimperty, native of Ohio, James Daniels. Held at Tipperary, Thomas E. Blackwell.

SPECIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 27, 1866.

The Idaho Routes.

The following appears in the Red Bluff Independent of the 18th inst

The Oregonians have had things all their own way and made fortunes out of the Idaho trade until this summer, when the competition from California began to appear dangerous. Until recently for Citizens, however some speculating "wise fool" put on an opposition propeller to Portland, thereby reducing freight from San Francisco to that point to the low figure of three dollars per ton—nine dollars less than heretofore. Of course, when this great reduction in freight presents itself to an Idaho merchant, it is an additional inducement to encourage him to stick to his old channel of shipment—the Columbia river. So the people of California can do little or nothing this season to remedy the existing evil.

It is undeniable that the cheap freights of this season have had much to do with retaining the Idaho trade in the channel which it has hitherto mainly followed. Low freights for the future, both by sea to Portland and from Portland to the mining districts, can alone ensure us in continued possession of the bulk of the trade with Idaho that we have hitherto enjoyed. The diminished rates at which freights have for some time been forwarded from San Francisco to Portland, may seem to some to work an inconvenience to parties in Oregon who have large stocks on hand, but the disadvantage (if any) will be but temporary, and will surely be succeeded by the brisker demand for goods which cheap freights, and a consequent reduction of prices, will produce.

The entire California press is greatly elated with the prospect of the route from Northern California to Owyhee. The establishment of a tri-weekly mail from Ruby City to Chico, and the celerity with which the trip has been made between the two points, (three and a half days) revives the hopes of the people of Northern California and imparts a new vigor to their efforts to compete with Oregon for the trade. The Independent confesses that its route cannot compete with ours in the cheap carriage of freight, provided opposition rates are maintained between San Francisco and Portland. But the same paper is quite sure that the overland route from California will shortly monopolize the greater part of the passenger travel to Idaho. This may, or may not be true. But in any event it behooves Portland to be alive to her interests and not sleep upon the advantages which she unquestionably possesses.

The resolution declaring Tennessee entitled to representation in Congress, has passed both houses. Will the President, after having fumed and fretted so much about his State being kept out of Congress, interpose his "Veto—I forbid?" Will the noble Tribune "accept the situation?" Or will he repent that "while eleven States are unrepresented, legislation which affects any of them is unconstitutional?" We think here is an excellent place and time for another veto—that is, if Moses is not particular about getting across the Red Sea of the fall elections. Will not this independent and prompt action of the "loyal majority" take some wind out of the Philadelphia Convention's sails?

HAVE YOU HEARD?—The telegraphic dispatches this morning, announce that full delegations of Democrats from Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and New York City Districts, are already chosen. These delegations include some of the most prominent Democratic leaders and most determined opponents of the war policy in 1861. Has the Herald of this city heard of anybody—any Democrat—who is going into the new party? Beriah, do you know of any Democrat who is about to abandon the rotten old Democratic hulk, for a posish on the craft now on the stocks at Philadelphia? If you can't, speak, squeeze our hand.

The call for the broad-and-butter Copperhead Convention at Philadelphia, declares that:

No delegate will take a seat in such convention who does not loyally accept the national situation and cordially endorse the principle set forth, and who is not attached to true allegiance to the Constitution, the Union and the Government of the United States.

This will let in A. A. Stephens, John C. Breckinridge, R. E. Lee, "General" Humphreys, rebel Governor of Mississippi, "Col." John Lane of Oregon, and the distinguished Southern citizen now residing at Fortress Monroe. They all "accept the national situation," and by the test of the flunky Convention, are all "loyal."

The New York World says:

The most important mistake Mr. Johnson has made, is keeping the Cabinet of President Lincoln.

If Johnson is but carrying forward the policy of President Lincoln, as Copperheads have a thousand times asseverated, what mistake is there in keeping Lincoln's Cabinet? Would it not be as well to acknowledge that Johnson has proven utterly faithless to the policy of President Lincoln as well as to his own, and that for that reason, he has failed to preserve unity between himself and Cabinet?

A human skull was lately found in Calaveras county, California, at the depth of 150 feet in what is known by geologists as the pleiocene formation. This discovery is one of the most important ever made for geology, and will create a great sensation in the learned world. It seems to establish the fact that man existed on this planet countless ages before the time designated by any of our traditions respecting his first appearance here. Casts of the skull will be sent to the principal ethnologists of Europe for their opinion concerning it.

"My policy" has developed itself into the removal-from-office stage. Every man who does not support "my policy" is to go overboard at once. We have no fault to find. If the President can stand it, we guess the Union party can; for every man removed is a gun brought into action against the President, which might never, otherwise, have fired a shot. The successors were all Johnson men beforehand and an entire exchange of official incumbents, will probably not add a single man to the present Presidential force.

We notice that J. W. Nesmith, United States Senator from Oregon, endorses the call for the Johnson-Copperhead Convention at Philadelphia. It is no more than might be expected of the Copperhead Nesmith, to find him now using his influence to destroy the Union party. Ah! Mr. Nesmith, your State will have a chance in September to tell you what she thinks of your conduct. You will get a "lick back" very soon.

Tennessee having passed the constitutional amendments—given the guarantees required to assume her loyalty to the Union—will be heartily welcomed again into the Halls of Congress. We are of opinion that Arkansas will soon follow suit, and then—a welcome to Arkansas. All loyal men will truly rejoice when the end of reconstruction shall have been reached. A welcome, say we, to each returning State.

If the San Francisco primaries, the Copperheads attempted the same game as that played several times in this city—colonizing themselves in the Union primaries to secure delegates who would take the elements of inharmony and disorganization into the convention. Judging from the dispatches, the Coppers have trouble enough to manage their own rabble, without undertaking to arrange programmes for anybody else.

The call for the "National Johnson Union Convention" advises that the delegates meet under the national flag. We are in favor of that. The flag ought to wave everywhere and over everybody; but won't it be a strange position for most of the delegates? Fernando Wood, Pendleton, Vallandigham, etc., under the American flag! There will be cats in a strange garret at Philadelphia.

Confirmations—Final Passage of the Tennessee Restoration Resolution.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Washington specials say that the Senate yesterday confirmed Henry Stanbery as Attorney General, but did not reach Mr Randall as Postmaster General, who will be confirmed.

The President has nominated John A Dix Minister at the Hague vice Sickles declined.

The House yesterday agreed to the Senate amendment to the Tennessee resolutions by a vote of 83 to 25, Messrs Raymond and Jones being the only Unionists voting in the negative.

Johnson and Seward in Confidence with Leading Copperheads.

Within a year or two past Messrs Vallandigham, Fernando Wood, Thurlow Weed, Raymond, Deshler, Montgomery Blair, and others, have held lengthy interviews with the President and Mr Seward, the object being understood to be to keep Vallandigham, Wood & Co. out of the Philadelphia Convention, but the decision arrived at was that the call was general and nobody can be excluded who approves it. Vallandigham publishes a call in the Washington evening papers inviting the Ohio Democrats in town to meet at the Metropolitan Hotel for consultation.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Steamer Scotia from Liverpool the 14th and Queenstown 15th arrived this evening.

Consols closed at 89¾@90¾ for money; 5-20's 67½@68. Cotton on Friday was more active, in prospect of peace, but Saturday the market was dull with little inquiry; prices were weak and declined ¼d. Breadstuff, although the weather was favorable for the crops, had taken a decided upward turn. Flour advanced one shilling per sack, wheat 2d per 100 lbs. The breadstuff market closed steady on Saturday, and a little easier.

Accounts of the French mediation are conflicting and nothing authentic has transpired. The threatened armed intervention is not confirmed, but French vessels have gone to Venetia.

The Paris Constitutionnel declares England should not follow France in intervention that tends to aggravate evils.

The Prussians were still advancing on the road to Venetia, their headquarters being at Zwittau with vanguard reported at Sinona.

The London papers say in regard to the Prussians that they are within four-eight to ten days' march of Vienna, with no great obstacle to overcome. Benedek's army was rapidly reorganizing 4 on the 11th they mustered 180,000 men exclusive of cavalry and artillery. General Cialdini has occupied Padua.

The Austrians are concentrating their forces for the protection of the Tyrol and Istria. Gen La Marmora has resigned.

The Paris Moniteur says that peace negotiations are still progressing, and the best of feeling prevails between France and Prussia. The Vienna Press of Saturday evening, says that Napoleon's mediation is waited for like the last card Austria must trust to her own strength and she is resolved to make the most strenuous exertions to maintain her position as a great power.

The Birmingham Banking Company had suspended on the 11th, liabilities over £2,000,000. A severe calamity for the large Birmingham houses.

The very latest from Paris reports the Bourse, firm; Stocks Off, 60c.

The fleet arrived off Valentia on the 13th, and the cable was successfully spliced to the shore, and signals have been sent through the entire cable. The Great Eastern commenced paying out, one hundred and thirty-four miles had been laid at last accounts, and the signals were perfect.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—The Democratic County Convention held another session last evening, their proceedings being conducted with closed doors. The meeting was a stormy one, another attempt being made to resind the nomination of McElroy, on which proposition an exciting debate ensued, which lasted for upwards of an hour. The Convention appeared to be about equally divided on McElroy, but it was finally decided that it would not do to rescind the nomination, on the ground of irregularity and precedent. The Convention then went into a nomination for other city officers, and finally decided upon the following tickets: Auditor, Frank V. Scudder; City Attorney, Selden L. Wright; Public Administrator, J. J. Papy; Superintendent of Streets, Leander Winter; Police Judge, Sam Platt. No nominations were made for Supervisors or School Directors, but the matter was postponed until the 30th of August next, to which time the Convention adjourned at 2 o'clock this morning.

The Union County Convention met last evening and effected a permanent organization. The candidates for nomination must have voted for Lincoln and Johnson, and are required to pledge their honor that they will abide the action of the Convention, and truly and heartily support its nominees, and that they will not accept a nomination from any other Convention, or run independent. The Convention will meet again to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

About 7 o'clock this morning a man named Tonello was shot by Joseph Loring, who keeps a cheap saloon on Commercial street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tunnicle attempted to commit suicide on Tuesday evening by swallowing a dose of oxalic acid. A physician was called, who administered antidotes and saved her life. She arrived in this city quite recently. Her husband went to the mines some months ago, since when she has not heard from him. Being reduced to want in consequence, she accepted a situation as waitress in a saloon, and her sense of delicacy led her to prefer death to the degrading associations of her new position.

The body of A. B. Parks, an old resident of this city, was found a short distance from the Lake House last evening, under circumstances which leave no doubt of his having committed suicide. A double-barreled shot gun lay by his side, one barrel of which had been discharged. It is supposed he was laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, caused by dissipation, when he committed suicide. He was a merchant in this city in early days, and is said to have been a prominent Vigilant Committeeman in 1855.

Otto Booker, the Pacific Glass Works defaulter, was taken over to San Quentin on Wednesday to serve out his sentence of one year in State prison. Booker was convicted of stealing $4,600, but it is understood that he refunded the whole or the greater part of the money, which accounts for the lightness of the sentence.

The steamer Ortaba, 49 hours from the Columbia river, arrived here this forenoon with $216,000 in treasure.

The Markets.

Flour—Sale of 1,000 sacks superfine for export at $4 75 @ 100 lbs. Superfine bf sks @ 100 lbs $4 75@$5; or sks $5@$5 25; extra bf sks $5 25@$5 50; or sks $5 50@$5 75.

Oats—Market dull; prices nominally the same.

Potatoes—No change in quotations.

Legal Tenders—Mining Stocks.

No later gold quotations being received, the market for legal tenders is quiet at 71 buying and 72 selling.

There is very little change to note in mining stocks today. From the morning board of yesterday Ophir declined $10, Yellow Jacket $5, Imperial $2 and Confidence $1. Overman shows an advance of $1.

VICTORIA, July 26.—The Collins Telegraph Company's bark Onward, sailed for Petropaulaski at one o'clock to-day.

THE FENIANS AGAINST JOHNSON.—From a Milwaukie dispatch of June 27th we obtain the following:

A meeting of Fenians was held at the Armory last evening, which was extremely enthusiastic. Major J. F. Barrett, of Iowa, made an eloquent speech, in the course of which he said that "notwithstanding the late reverse to the Fenian arms, the Brotherhood was not dead. He spoke in terms of unmeasured rebuke of the course pursued by the President on Fenian matters. When all was ready, when the Irish troops were about to cross the border and humble the pride of the oppressors of their native land, Andrew Johnson, with a paper bullet, defeated the whole scheme. He could tell his hearers that the next quasi proclamation issued by the President would come too late to prevent the Fenians from entering Canada; for before it will be issued, the whole Fenian army will be in Canada.

It would be needless for me to conceal the fact that we will go to Canada. This has already transpired. When we start for that destination we will go there if Andrew Johnson fires paper bullets enough to fill the largest ball in Milwaukie. We must expect opposition from him. He has the veto mood very badly. He has vetoed every bill passed by Congress, and will veto all others. If the radical Congress, the best friends we have in America, should pass a bill repealing the neutrality laws, it would doubtless receive the Presidential veto. If he had but observed the same neutrality toward us that England did toward the South, we would not complain. It has been said that Andy was drunk when he issued his proclamation, and when he got sober he would take it back. It has taken him a long to get sober.

Not one half of the people of the United States hold Mr. Davis accountable for a personal crime in allowing himself to be made the chief of a revolutionary movement inaugurated by Satan. His personal innocence or guilt is a mooted question upon which the country is divided.—Herald.

That is the style of stuff upon which the Herald daily feeds its readers. Comment on that would be quite superfluous.

THE BLAIRS.—Carl Schurz, of the Detroit Post, condenses the Blair family in this wise:

The Blair family, consisting of the senior Francis, the junior Francis, and Montgomery, is the three-headed Cerebus stationed at the entrance of the Executive mansion, demanding a sop from every political party that seeks an entrance. It is a trinity of supernatural shrewdness, precocious conceit, and vanity smeared by disappointed ambition.

STATE ITEMS.

Alf Sherwin, the Idaho duellist, is said to be a son in law of C. F. Wm. Martin of Oregon, and formerly lived in Corvallis.

A resident of this city who has just been out into Yamhill county says that heavy rains there delay harvesting to a very much later date than usually. Farmers are beginning to cut some of the more forward pieces.

The Copperheads of Yamhill county lately undertook to control the county offices of the county, but proceeded so bunglingly that the whole scheme was a failure. The duties of the incumbents of the contested offices were observed according to law, and therefore the whole proceeding came to nothing. If the contest had been perfectly regular and legal it would not have changed the final result.

Mr Wheeler of Scio informs us that the citizens in the neighborhood of the late reported murder by John Thomas on the Santiam, have been making considerable search for the body of the man whom Thomas confessed to having killed but up to last Sunday morning without success. No man is known to be missing. Some believe that Thomas had killed a man, but there is nothing to indicate the truthfulness of Thomas' story. Mr. Wheeler learns from those who have seen Thomas in jail, that he has denied the name of his victim or that he had killed any man while to others he still confesses it. On Tuesday the neighbors were to strip off the water from another slough than the one designated by Thomas as the one into which he knocked the man, for the purpose of examining a deep hole in which some signs of a dead body had been found. The whole affair is enveloped, as yet, in mystery.

FROM UTAH

We clip the following from the Telegraph of July 12th:

INDIAN TROUBLES RENEWED

The Indians are making trouble on the South Pass route. On Sunday the telegraph operator at La Bonte, 65 miles west of Fort Laramie was given a lively chase between La Bonte and Deer Creek.

We have received a private letter from Capt Geo F Price into A A A G of the District of Utah, dated Denver the 28th ult., in which he says the Indians have already commenced mischief down the road, and lively times may be expected, as the Laramie Council has completely failed.

INCLEMENCY

For the first time in a long while the inhabitants of our quiet city were alarmed by the cry of fire, on the 3d inst. About a quarter past nine a fire broke out in the stable of Messrs Walker Bros., and in fifteen minutes the building was burned to the ground. The stable contained six valuable horses, only one of which was saved. The entire loss amounts to about $5,000, on which there was no insurance. It is not known how the fire originated, but it is generally believed that it was the work of incendiaries.

FROM WHITE BLUFFS.

We have a letter dated White Bluffs, July 22d, from which we take the following extract:

Mr. F. H. Moody arrived to-day on his way to Pen d'Oreille. He proceeded in engaging trains to haul the machinery, &c., for the steamboats now building on the upper lakes. Mr. Moody had the machinery shipped and landed at Wallula, but the many inducements held out have caused him to reship to this place, showing plainly and "without comment" that this is the route.

The Bluffs is still improving, and the traders, packers, teamsters and travelers all speak highly of the route "to Pond'Oreille and Big Bend," viz, "Colville." We have now some thirteen to fifteen trains that will start next Monday—destined in for the above places.

Does Again.—Ross Browne once said in his writings that "the pleasures of coming to California was only excelled by that of leaving California," and in this we can

Two weeks ago we took passage with Capt Connor on the fine steamer Orizaba in company with several gentlemen of this State for a short respit from business in visiting San Francisco, and Napa county California. We anticipated much pleasure and must say that while on ship board, and in Napa county we enjoyed the trip well, but to only four hours in San Francisco was a most unfortunate right of time for all practical benefits one could hope for in that "place." The weather was cold, so cheerless was it that the jingling sleigh bells on the horses attached to the street cars, were very suggestive of Minnesota, with the thermometer at 40° below zero. The "sheltered" streets seemed to us an indication of the habits of the people of San Francisco, and the responsible use of "white horses" used in drawing their backs, cars, "busses, etc. was so illustrative of "Death" that we could not think of the "pale" animal. Then, as to amusements up to a more realizing sense of the situation, we were posted off to the third or fourth story of the hotel we were stopping at, and treated to the feelings engendered by a genuine earthquake shake, gotten up expressly, no doubt, for the benefit of the Oregonians who had arrived during the day. We have barely time at the present writing to enumerate our return home. We certainly feel the pleasure much greater at returning, than that experienced when about to take our departure. We feel that Portland is, after all, much superior to the "chief" metropolis of this great Pacific coast. We shall never admit that the bay city is superior in any respect, except that of numbers, to Portland. We have here more real substantial wealth, better business prospects, more and finer buildings, better streets, more convenient wharves, and in point of fact everything superior to San Francisco, in proportion to the population, all of which we propose to speak of as occasion may permit. Our trip was made very pleasant on board the Orizaba, and we reiterate what has heretofore been said, that she is a most excellent vessel. The owners of the line to which she belongs deserve long and liberal patronage from Oregon, but they now appear to take a more lively interest in the welfare of the people who have so largely contributed in the past to their support, and rendered such valuable assistance to build up the company. During a very severe gale, lasting from Sunday evening until Monday morning last Capt. Connor subscribed to the public opinion regarding his abilities as a seaman. The ocean was very rough, and Boreas blew in the most prolific sense, but the steadiness of our craft did not admit of alarm among the passengers. Of the number of gentlemen from Oregon who made up the party seeking pleasure and relaxation, but two returned with us. However, we have no fears of their becoming worried in California, and all may be expected home in a reasonable space of time. One of them has taken quite a fancy for Oakland, and it is presumable may establish his headquarters there, yet we very much doubt it. Oakland is an inviting spot at this season of the year, and a few Oregonians have set their stakes there. Mr Hector, formerly of Salem, has his cotton goods factory in successful operation at that point, and is doing a good business. His enterprise was stimulated by a bonus of $10,000 given by the State of California to the pioneer cotton factory, and it would be well if Oregon were to profit by this example. We feel in Mr. Hector an enterprising and persevering citizen, and our sister State is reaping a decided advantage from his efforts. Notwithstanding the bonuses offered by California, in comparison of wealth we can see that Oregon, in point of manufactures, is but a moderate pace in the rear. When the agricultural interests of the two States are compared, the result is most favorable to Oregon. Napa county is undoubtedly the most productive county of the State, and having conversed with numerous farmers in Napa Valley, we became convinced that the grain products, as reported this season have been greatly exaggerated. The production of cereals is so uncertain in California that a large extent of ground, heretofore devoted to raising grain, is being planted in vineyards. Farmers there find that they can depend more upon a crop of grapes, and realize better prices, than for grain. The cost of raising wheat is about one cent per pound, and the price obtained is perhaps 1½ cents per pound, while the cost of producing the grape is less than one cent per pound, and the price obtained is frequently four cents per pound. The lack of tonnage to send off the crops of California is all conceded. Speculators would have it appear that such was really the case, but the facts are very different, there is no lack of tonnage at San Francisco, nor is there apt to be. As regards wool, the fact that all the best factories of that State are running their looms upon a quality produced in Oregon, is sufficient comment to establish a reputation for our husbandmen.

Arrest of Capt. Nelson.—A private letter from Mr. S. B. Dilley, Agent of Wells, Fargo & Co. at Rocky Bar, South Boise, Idaho, gives an account of the arrest of Capt. F. O. Nelson at that place, former Superintendent of the Victor Gold and Silver Mining Company, on the 16th of July, on a warrant issued by Judge McBride, on complaint of the Company. He was lodged in jail in default of bonds to the amount of $50,000. It is not stated on what charge the arrest was based, but it is supposed to be on a charge of defalcation.

To all Boise.—The final termination of the New York and Idaho Gold and Silver Mining Company's affairs at South Boise is referred to in an advertisement of their mill property, which is to be sold on the fourth day of August, at Rocky Bar, on a judgment in favor of Messrs. A. C. Ripley & Co of this city. The judgement of the claimants, together with the liens of the mechanics, amounting to about $13,000, will probably be sufficient to sweep the matter entirely out of the Courts, and place the machinery in other hands.

Personal.—Our former fellow-townsman J. W. J. Pierson, Esq., is at present in the city looking very much younger than in his previous years among us. He is still engaged in the Sewing Machine business at 116 Montgomery street, San Francisco, and having called at his establishment when there a few days since we are not at a loss to account for his good appearance. We should like very much to have him settle again in Portland, believing that he would feel more at home here than in California.

Pumping.—One of Brizer's patent valveless pumps was set to work yesterday to raise the water out of the cellar under the Merchant's Exchange. This is a very simple but effective contrivance, working wholly by force of steam in the air chamber, and is capable of throwing water at the rate of ten barrels per minute, under a pressure of 100 pounds of steam. Chief Engineer Ray, of the Orizaba, is owner of the patent for this coast, and Mr. C. H. Myers is agent for Oregon.

"Henry Sen Cobb."—The steamboat Oriental is like a man who watched the pendulum on a wager that he would with each motion say, "Here she goes, there she goes!" On Tuesday night the boat was stolen and taken out into the stream about two hundred yards from the shore. We understand she is to be sold over again as there is a difficulty about adjusting the terms of the first sale.

Knock it in the Tracks.—A farmer's team yesterday became unmanageable on Second street, near the grocery establishment of McLaran Bros., and kicked so badly that almost instantly not a "trace" of the harness was left whole. The old gentleman driver came within a short nail of his future home, the heels of the most refractory animal having grazed quite near to his head.

Recorder's Court—Hoffman J.—Thursday, July 26th. Lewis Clarke, fined guilty of defacing a building on Washington street, was sentenced to 30 days imprisonment. A motion by Chief Dale's counsel for a new trial will be heard to-day.....Mrs. Black, d. t., sentenced to serve the jail in cooking at the City expense, in the absence of law to give her more profitable employment.

The Montana.—The steamship Montana, Capt. Kelly, arrived yesterday afternoon. Her manifest and list of passengers will be seen under the appropriate heading to-day in this paper. We understand she will sail, on her return voyage, on Sunday morning next.

Washington Street.—Among the numerous other improvements going on about the city we observe that stone foundations have been laid on Washington street, between Fifth and Sixth, for several buildings, embracing a space of 100 feet by 50 feet deep, for Mr. A. M. King.

Bronze Hall.—The exercises of Spencer Hall Institute at Milwaukie will be resumed on the 5th of September, as will be seen by advertisement. Miss Gray is absent during the vacation, and expects to secure a suitable corps of teachers to assist her in the approaching term.

Attempted Suicide.—A Celestial named John attempted to poison himself slight before last, because his mistress A Chow would not iron his linen. Unfortunately for the country he did not succeed in smelling his "lights" out, but was improving yesterday.

Wenem No.—Members of the Honorihuapue, in good standing, are requested to meet at their hall on 2d street, on Saturday evening, at half past seven, sharp. A full attendance is requested as "biz" of interest will be presented.

The "J. C. Champion."—We were mistaken yesterday in reporting that the above vessel had sailed. She is now loading at the wharf of Messrs Everding & Bowlby, for Tillamook, and will leave either this evening or to-morrow.

Gems.—We have received a "Book of Gems," by Bartholomew White, published by Towne & Bacon of San Francisco, which is worthy of a place in every man's library, although it is a moderate sized pamphlet.

Real Estate Sales.—Mr A. D. Richardson will sell some very desirable property on the first day of September, at auction. A full description of the premises appears elsewhere in our columns to-day.

Sale To-Day.—As will be seen by advertisement Mr Kilbourn will to-day dispose of a large and valuable assortment of household goods, carpets, etc Attend this sale if you desire anything in that line.

Says the New York World:

We approve of Mr. Johnson's policy, his vetoes, his speeches, his logic, his invectives, everything, in short, that is his.

Including also his conduct on the 4th of March, 1865, when, according to the World, "his country was publicly disgraced by the pukings of a drunken boor."

The Herald has got a correspondent, the Herald's correspondent writes from Albany:

The next morning at an early hour, our eyes (I don't use this plural editorially, for I mean we as and company) were permitted to rest upon the lightning orator of Oregon, Hon. Ben. Hayden.

How bleat, the two eyes of that correspondent!

And the correspondent of the Herald still lives!

The Philadelphia Convention.

The following is the call for the Philadelphia National Convention

Washington, June 25, 1866.

A National Union Convention of at least two delegates from each Congressional District of all the States, two from each Territory, two from the District of Columbia, and four delegates at large from each, will be held at the city of Philadelphia, on the 14th of August next. Such delegates will be chosen by the Executive of the several States who sustain the Administration in maintaining unbroken the Union of the States under the Constitution which our fathers established, and who agree in the following proposition, viz:

The union of the States is in every case indissoluble and is perpetual, and the Constitution of the United States and the laws passed by Congress in pursuance thereof are supreme, constant and universal in their obligation. The rights, the dignity and the equality of the States in the Union, including the right of representation in Congress, are solemnly guaranteed by that Constitution, to save which from overthrow so much blood and treasure were expended in the late civil war. There is no right anywhere to dissolve the Union or to separate States from the Union either by voluntary withdrawal, by force of arms or by Congressional action, neither by the secession of States nor by the exclusion of their loyal and qualified representatives, nor by the National Government in any other form. Slavery is abolished and neither can nor ought to be re-established by any State or Territory within our jurisdiction.

Each State has the undoubted right to prescribe the qualifications of its own electors, and no external power rightfully can or ought to dictate, control or influence the free and voluntary action of the State in the exercise of that right.

The maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States, and especially the right of each State to order and control its own domestic concerns according to its own judgment exclusively, subject only to the Constitution of the United States, is essential to that balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends, and the overthrow of that system, by usurpation in contravention of power in Congress, would be a revolution, dangerous to a Republican Government and destructive of liberty. Each House of Congress is made, by the Constitution, the sole judge of its election returns and qualifications of its members, but the exclusion of loyal Senators and Representatives, properly chosen and qualified under the Constitution and laws, is unjust and revolutionary. Every patriot should frown upon those acts and proceedings everywhere, which can serve no other purpose than to rekindle the animosities of war and the effects of which upon our moral, social and material interests at home, and upon our standing abroad, differing only in a degree, is injurious like war itself.

The purpose of the war having been to preserve the Union and the Constitution by putting down the rebellion, and the rebellion having been suppressed, all resistance to the authority of the General Government being at an end and the war having ceased, war measures should all cease, and should be followed by measures of peaceful administration, so that union, harmony and concord may be encouraged, and industry, commerce and the arts of peace revived and promoted; and the early restoration of all the States to the exercise of their constitutional power in the National Government is indispensably necessary to the strength and the defense of the Republic, and to the maintenance of the public credit.

All such electors in the thirty-six States and nine Territories of the United States and in the District of Columbia who, in a spirit of patriotism and love for the Union, can rise above personal and sectional considerations, and who desires to see a truly National Union Convention, which shall represent all the States and Territories of the Union, assembled as friends and brothers under the national flag to hold counsel together upon the state of the Union, and to take measures to avert possible dangers from the same, are specially requested to take part in the choice of such delegates. But no delegate will take a seat in such Convention who does not loyally accept the national situation and cordially the principle above set forth, and who is not attached in true allegiance to the Constitution, the Union and the Government of the United States.

Cholera in Elizabeth and Jersey Cities.—New York, June 28th—Since the case of cholera in Elizabeth City (N. J.), noted a few days since, there have been twenty additional cases, with nine deaths. The infected district has been placed under charge of the police, who have barricaded the streets and burned the bedding and clothing of the patients. The disease has been checked, as no new cases have been reported for three days. Two cases of cholera in Jersey City have been reported.

A Heavy Run.—The Eureka Company cleaned up, after their last run of six days, about 10,000. This mine is located near Grass Valley, and is one of the most valuable in the State. The average yield for nearly six months has been about $70,000 per month, without running on Sunday.

The acknowledged superiority of his manufactures, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their bad for productions for the genuine G. Danger of Circumstantial Testimony.

The following remarkable cases of circumstantial evidence were compiled from various sources, English and foreign, by the editors of Chambers' Miscellany of Useful Knowledge, and are presented here, not only for their thrilling interest, but as a warning to those who have the life and liberty of supposed criminals in their power, to be extremely careful in rendering their verdicts:

WILLIAM SHAW.

In the year 1721 there resided in Edinburg an upholsterer named William Shaw, who had a daughter, Catharine Shaw, who lived with him. The young woman, it appears, encouraged the addresses of John Lawson, a jeweler, to whom Wm. Shaw declared the most unsurmountable objections, alleging him to be a profligate young man, addicted to every kind of dissipation. He was forbidden the house, but the daughter continuing to see him clandestinely, the father, on the discovery, kept her strictly confined.

Wm. Shaw had for some time urged his daughter to receive the addresses of a son of Alexander Robertson, a friend and neighbor; and one evening, being very urgent with her thereon, she peremptorily refused, declaring she preferred death to being young Robertson's wife. The father grew enraged, and the daughter more and more positive, so that the most passionate expressions arose on both sides, and the words barbarity, cruelty and death were frequently pronounced by the daughter. At length he left her, locking the door after him.

The greater number of the buildings in Edinburg are tall and massive, divided into flats or floors, each inhabited by one or more families, all of whom enter by a stair leading to the respective floors. Wm. Shaw resided in one of those flats, and a partition only divided his dwelling from that of James Morrison, a watch-case maker. This man had indistinctly overheard the conversation between Catharine Shaw and her father, and was particularly struck with the repetition of the above words, she having pronounced them loudly and emphatically. For some little time after the father was gone out, all was silent, but presently Morrison heard several groans from the daughter. Alarmed, herein to some of his neighbors under the same roof; these, entering Morrison's room and listening attentively, not only heard the groans, but distinctly heard Catharine Shaw two or three times exclaim: "Cruel father, thou art the cause of my death." Struck with this they flew to the door of Shaw's apartment; they knocked—no answer given. The knock was repeated—still no answer. Suspicions had before arisen against the father; they were now confirmed. A Constable was procured and an entrance forced. Catharine was found weltering in her blood, and the fatal knife by her side. She was alive, but speechless, but on questioning her as to owing her death to her father, was just able to make a motion with her head, apparently in the affirmative, and expired. At this critical moment Wm. Shaw returned, and entered the room. Immediately all eyes were upon him. Seeing his neighbors and a constable in his apartment, he appeared much disordered; but at the sight of his daughter he turned pale, trembled, and was ready to sink. The first surprise and the succeeding horror, left little doubt of his guilt in the breasts of the beholders; and even that little was done away on the constable discovering that the shirt of Shaw was bloody.

He was instantly hurried before a magistrate, and, upon the deposition of all the parties, committed to prison on suspicion. He was shortly after brought to trial, when in his defense he acknowledged the having confined his daughter, to prevent her intercourse with Lawson; that he had frequently insisted upon her marrying Robertson; and that he had quarreled with her upon the subject the evening she was found murdered, as the witness Morrison had deposed; and he averred that he left his daughter unharmed and untouched, and that the blood upon his shirt was there in consequence of having bled himself some days before and the bandage becoming untied. These assertions did not weigh a feather with the jury when opposed to the strong circumstantial evidence of the daughter's expressions of "barbarity, cruelty, death," and "cruel father, thou art the cause of my death," together with her apparently affirmative motion with her head, and of the blood so seemingly providentially discovered on the father's shirt. On these several concurring circumstances was William Shaw found guilty, and executed at Deith Walk, in November, 1721.

Was there a person in Edinburg who believed the father guiltless? No, not one, notwithstanding his words at the gallows were, "I am innocent of my daughter's murder." But in August, 1722, as a man who had become the possessor of the late William Shaw's apartments, was rummaging by chance in the Chamber whether Catharine Shaw died, he accidentally perceived a paper fallen into a cavity on one side of the chimney. It was folded as a letter, which on opening contained the following: "Barbarous father, your cruelty in having put it out of my power ever to join my fate to that of the only man I could love, and tyrannically insisting upon my marrying one whom I always hated, has made me form a resolution to put an end to an existence which is become a burden to me. I doubt not I shall find mercy in another world, for sure no benevolent Being can require that I should any longer live in torment to myself in this. My death I lay to your charge; when you read this consider yourself as the inhuman wretch that plunged the murderous knife into the bosom of the unhappy—Catharine Shaw."

This letter being shown, the hand-writing was recognized, and avowed to be Catharine Shaw's by many of her friends and relations. It became the public talk; and the magistry of Edinburg, on a scrutiny, being convinced of its authenticity, ordered the body of Wm. Shaw to be taken from the gibbet and given to his family for interment; and as the only reparation to his memory and the honor of his surviving relations, they caused a pair of colors to be waived over his grave in token of his innocence—a poor compensation it will be allowed, for an act of gross cruelty and injustice.

REPRESENTATION UNDER THE AMENDMENT.—The Memphis Argus has prepared the following table, exhibiting the effect of the Constitutional Amendment on representation in the Southern States where suffrage is denied the negro:

	Actual number of members.	Under the Constitutional Amendment.
Alabama	7	4
Arkansas	2	1
Delaware	1	1
Florida	1	1
Georgia	7	4
Louisiana	4	2
Maryland	6	4
Mississippi	5	3
Missouri	9	5
North Carolina	5	3
South Carolina	5	2
Tennessee	8	6
Texas	4	3
Virginia	8	6
Total	75	50

We have been curious to discover what objection could be made to the equalizing of representation proposed by the amendment. The above, doubtless, shows the actual objection. To equalize is to reduce the representation of the South, and the reduction is not agreeable. Without any amendment; the South would gain representation by the rebellion. If there has been a decrease of negro population, there would be, without the amendment, no proportional decrease of representatives, and the result would be virtually the same. The diminution of an unfairly large representation, to a standard of fairness, cannot be unjust; yet Southern men point to the fact of the diminution as a proof that they are oppressed! A distinguished Alabama gentleman the other day put the case to us thus: "Before the war we had the slaves to take care of, and the North had not, therefore we were entitled to more representatives to enable us to take care of them. Since they are free, the care of them is a still greater burden, and therefore we are entitled to still more representatives." Had Wendell Phillips thus stated the Southern argument, we should have credited him with irony. Doubtless, the South needed more representatives, a great many more, to protect slavery, and more, she needs to have her representatives quadrupled, to enable her to hold the freedmen in a condition no better than slavery."

A PAIR OF CONSTRUAL HEROES.—Gov. Hawley of Connecticut, says the Flag, was one of the speakers at the Boston anniversaries. Col. Higginson, in alluding to his personal services, said he would tell of his better half. When Colonel Hawley went as commander of the Seventh Connecticut, to Port Royal, to do his share of conquering, and to conquer, he took with him a thousand bayonets on one side and a Connecticut woman with her school books, on the other. Where he planted the standard of the Union, she planted its institutions; and where he waved his sword, she waved the primer.

Du Chaillu, the great African traveler, sends to the London Times some interesting notes on a tribe of pigmies which he discovered in Western Africa. They resemble the gipsies somewhat in their habits, and gain their livelihood by trapping game, which they sell in the villages. They average about four feet six inches in hight, and are known as the Obongo.

The Finegan navy is now reduced to one tug—the tug of war between the factions.

Geological Survey of California.

The late discovery by Prof. Whitney that a human skull has been taken in this State from a formation of the pliocene age, will not only excite attention as an independent fact throughout the scientific world, but will also give additional fame to our Geological Survey, and credit to the State for her enterprise in undertaking a work so extensive, and executing it in a manner so creditable. The act providing for the survey is, as we have remarked in other occasions, more comprehensive than any similar law in any other country, and the work laid out was so extensive that several years elapsed before we began to have any results, but now they begin to become numerous and important. Important they have already been in the interests of general science, and important they promise to be in an economical point of view, although little that relates to the latter division has yet been published. The branch of economical geology can only be worked up by a mining engineer of capacity, experience and thorough training, and such men are rare on this coast, and command salaries much higher than the survey can afford to pay. Besides, the work in it is extensive and must be done in a very careful manner. For those reasons it is not so far advanced as some other departments. Prof. Whitney, however, will devote himself to it, and thus make certain that it will not be neglected. The topographical labors of the Survey have been very extensive, and will give us a map of the State immeasurably superior to any now in existence. The precise measurements of the altitudes of the most prominent peaks in the State, the careful descriptions of Mounts Shasta, Lassen, Diablo, Tamalpais and Whitney, and of the elevated region of the Sierra in Tulare and Fresno counties, and the minute survey of Yosemite Valley, are among the interesting labors of the Topographical Department. There are now three parties in the field—one South of the Sonora road, another South of Bloness Pass, and a third in the Colusa and Humboldt region. Those parties examine the topography carefully, and pay as much attention as possible to geology and botany. The Supervisors of Plumas have voted to contribute $6,000 towards making a survey and map of their county, and this will be a material assistance to Prof. Whitney in examining a rich region which the State appropriation alone would not enable him to study thoroughly. In the Zoological and Botanical Departments, the work is far advanced, and the text is ready for publication, in advance of the engravings and of the funds. In the general geology much work has been done, but the geological map of the State will not be complete for some time.

The progress of Science may be a matter of indifference to many persons; but men of intelligence, who take pride in California and desire to see her honored, and worthy of honor, will in time find many matters of satisfaction in the result of this survey. Our coast is a new world in science, and we are doing our utmost, and with very respectable success, to set forth the peculiarities and wonders of our domain. The indigenous animals and vegetables of California are peculiar to her soil, and although much has been written about them, the survey will throw much light on them. In our geological formations, there are many facts unlike any studied elsewhere; and those will probably serve to explain much that has hitherto been unintelligible in the geology of Mexico. It has been discovered that the coast had risen from the ocean, and sustained animals and plants, unlike those now in the State, for a long period before the great volcanic convulsions which threw up immense peaks and covered 15,000 or 20,000 square miles of our State with beds of lava. Then came an era in which glaciers, far grander than any now existing in the Alps, were found in all the large ravines on the high mountains, where their marks still remain, though the rivers of ice disappeared thousands of years ago, before the gradually increasing warmth of the climate. In that cooler era, large inland seas existed east of the Sierra Nevada, and the elephant, mastodon, bison, tapir, and horse, with many other animals of less note and long since extinct, ranged over the hills. With the progress of time, the streams made great changes in the surface of the earth; hills were washed down, ancient river beds were buried, valleys were filled up, new rivers were formed, and at last the country took its present shape. Our State saw many strange events before Marshall discovered gold at Coloma, before Stuart hoisted the stars and stripes at Monterey, and even before Junipero Sierra founded the first white settlement at San Diego. As yet, we have only hints, but in time we shall have a geological history of our State; for the record of the rocks and earthy strata, in regard to the events that took place in California before the organization of the ancient Egyptian Monarchy, are in many respects more full and more trustworthy than are the Mexican archives in relation to the events that occurred here under the dominion of Mexico.—Alta.

SYMPATHY FOR FENIANISM—CANADIAN IRRELEVANCE.—I presume there are very few people in this direction who will undertake to deny that despite the repressive attitude of our Government—despite the tone of the editorials in most of our leading journals at the North—and in spite, too, I may add, of the unseemly quarrels and the military blunders of the Fenian leaders—there is a very wide spread sympathy in the community in behalf of the Fenian cause. Canada may thank England for that sympathy now. But, should another Fenian raid upon Canada be undertaken, and should that sympathy grow stronger upon it, and manifest itself, perhaps, in some cases, in action, the Canadians may thank themselves for it—or rather, the Tory leaders. The insolence of these fellows is really becoming unbearable. "The Canadian people," says one of their journals, "will not be appeased with the spectacle of the hanging of a score or two of miserable Fenians. They want to see their dangling limbs glad off, here and there, while the gaunt body of a Yankee editor!" A similar spirit of insolence, though less savage in its tone, was manifested the other day in the Canadian Parliament, where Mr. Galt made a motion for the indemnification by the United States of the Provincial government for the expenses incurred on account of the Fenian raid. The boot should be on the other leg, and the Canadians should be made to foot the expenses incurred by the United States in its efforts to save them from a thrashing. The motion of Mr. Galt is characteristic of a nation which battled down Chinese cities and slaughtered the people, because the authorities insisted upon enforcing their laws against opium smuggling.—N. Y. Correspondent Bulletin.

BEN. HOLLADAY.—The St. Louis Democrat of June 27th, referring to Hon. Holladay's transportation of the Overland Mail, and which that paper styles a "monstrous abuse," says:

The people of St. Louis and the whole west are interested in this subject and their representatives should co-operate with the Pacific coast members in moving for a thorough reform. For many years to come the Overland Mail stages will fill the gap between the two ends of the Pacific Railroad now building from Missouri westward and from California eastward. It is of the highest importance to the thousands of our former citizens living in Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Montana Territories, and in California and Oregon, that this service shall be efficiently and regularly performed. The terms of the contract should be enforced, and if Holladay is unable to fill it, there are other parties ready and willing to step into his shoes and take the contract off his hands. The Government pays an enormous sum yearly for the service, and it is but truth to say that the time by this shortest route across the country to California is worse than it was formerly, when the mails were carried between this city and San Francisco by what is called the Oxbow route via Fort Smith and El Paso. There was regularity as well as speed in the service on that line, and with a full thousand miles less of travel and a comparatively settled country at regular intervals on the route, an energetic effort to make time and carry the mail daily must meet with success. Under the present arrangement the attempts to carry the mails to and from California by the overland route is a wretched farce. A reform is demanded and we call upon the Missouri delegation in Congress to lend a helping hand in effecting that much desired event.

CHANGE OF ARBITRARY IMPRISONMENT.—A Washington dispatch of June 25th furnishes the following:

In the House of Representatives to-day a committee of investigation was appointed to inquire into certain charges alledged against an undersigned Bureau of the War Department. It appears that a private soldier, on detailed duty at the headquarters of some of the brigades of our army, at Andersonville, Ga., last summer, took the trouble to make a list of all Federal soldiers buried there and mark their graves. On the return of the soldier to this city he loaned the list so made to a party who paid him several hundred dollars for the privilege of copying it, but never returned the original. The War Department, or some bureau thereof, demanded the list, and in default of obtaining it arrested the soldier, tried and convicted him and sent him to prison for a term of years. An appeal was made to the President in his behalf, who referred the case to the Bureau of Military Justice. That Bureau returned the appeal to the President, recommending non intervention in the matter. The case now comes up on a numerously signed petition to Congress from the friends and neighbors of the soldier.

The following is Mr. Dudident's speech at a presentation supper:

Ladies and gentlemen—I beg pardon. [Laughter.] Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen—[cheers.] In returning in rising to return, ladies and gentlemen, in returning my sincere thanks for the great and distinguished, though merited—[laughter]—urna cool [cheers]—honor you have—I have just—just conferred [laughter and cheers]—permit me to say that I—I beg to assure you, ladies and gentlemen, nothing I can say on the present occasion, can adequately express my—your sense of my kindness—[loud applause and laughter] will kindle a most I can assure you, ladies and gentlemen, this is the happiest moment of my life [renewed applause], and in—in returning—returning from the bottom of my heart [cheers]—it is perhaps unnecessary—unnecessary to say anything—[cries of "go on"]—and I trust I have said nothing—[laughter]—nothing on the present occasion that—but I'll not detain you—ladies and gentlemen—["yes, you go on"]—and by saying that—have said more than I intend to say on the present occasion [hear, hear]—I can only say that—that in returning my sincere thanks, I—I beg most sincerely to thank you. [The speaker on resuming his seat, was rewarded by several rounds of applause].
